

Muralitharan Thambapillai
Sous Chef
Hilton Garden Inn Toronto/Ajax

I was born in a small town in Sri Lanka and found myself years later in Canada and currently living in Toronto. I have completed my culinary diploma at Liaison College. I chose this career so I can enhance my expertise in the culinary world and most importantly seeing the joy and satisfaction of those who eat great food! No matter where you come from, all of us have one thing in common; we all love food! Everyone is entitled to great food, and that is the motto I live by when preparing each dish.

My professional experience includes being employed at Hilton Garden Inn as a sous chef. I have worked there for the past four years and continue to do so. I also manage and operate a catering business; Brindleberry Catering & Events. I chose to career to make a difference and continue to learn and adapt to new technologies and techniques which will further enhance my culinary skills. Preparing unique and delicate cuisine has become an everyday part of my life and there is no looking back! Food has always been my forte and people have always been my passion!